Calendula

What is Calendula?

Let's get started with the live demo.

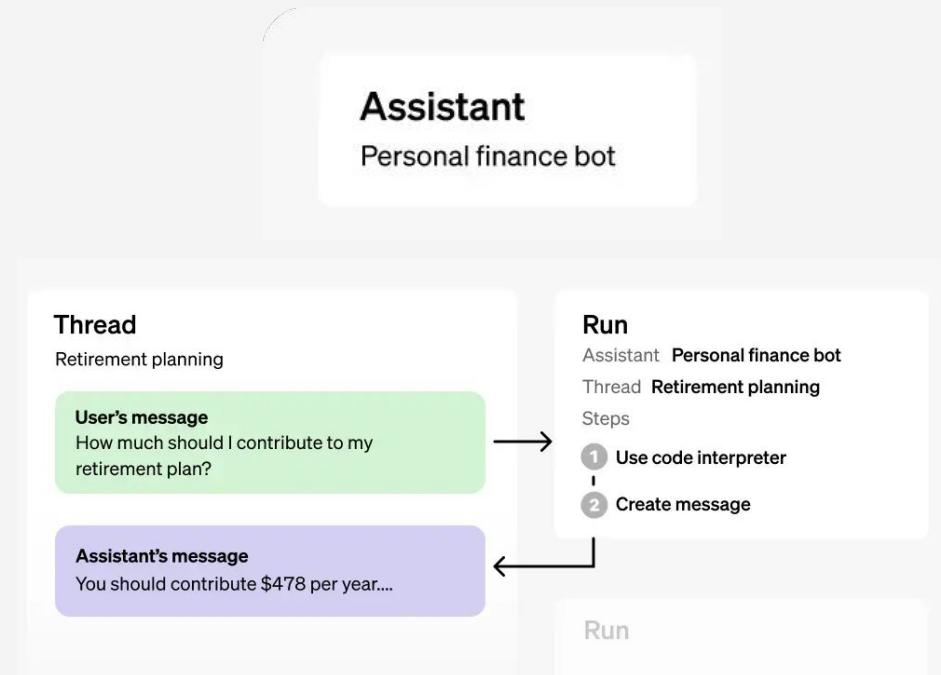

How does the application work?

General Chat

- Users often find it difficult to plan personal events or tasks that fit their time preferences along with their schedule.
- Chatbot allows Users to find a time for the task that fits their needs and is automatically updated on their calendar.
- High-Level Overview:
 - CRUD operations on Calendar
 - Google Calendar API

Calendar Assistant

- Users often find themselves in long email/Slack message chains, trying to find the best time to meet with their peer(s)
- With the capability to allow users to “talk” to your schedule, you can easily avoid this!
- High-Level Overview:
 - OpenAI Assistants
 - Google Calendar API

Google Integration

- As a calendar app, the core of our program consists of integration with Google and its apis from calendar information to user auth
- Along with being able to replicate your calendar on our app, we have also implemented a two-way sync so that your events always stay up to date on both apps
- High-Level Overview:
 - Google Calendar API

Groups

- Users sometimes need to schedule events for multiple people at once. Using Groups, you can connect your schedule with other user's!
- High-Level Overview:
 - Authentication

Closing Remarks

Limitations:

- Stringent limitations on assistant feature use
- Cut out unnecessary Google API call for assistant (and elsewhere potentially)

Moving Forward:

- Idea has a lot of promise
- Integrate with other calendars - Apple, Notion, etc.
- Look into where similar apps fall short

Reflection

- Auth. is necessary but painful to deal with
- Collaboration is key

Thank You!
